

Observation on a non-gambler

- Observation on Youssef's prototype
 - Immediately spun slots
 - Lowered bet with each time she lost (or randomly)
 - Switched to roulette after like 6 times, saw it and then said no
 - Went to wheel and did it
 - Won first then instantly bet a higher one
 - Raging when she lost 4 times in a row
 - "Bro this is chopped"
 - Took a second to figure out how the wheel odds worked (theres more of the lower multiplier ones)
 - Couldn't read the yellow multiplier
 - Left as soon as she won with the nute
 - Moved on to craps, min bet and then rolled before she read the rules
 - Didn't really mess with craps moved on quick
 - Went to blackjack and didn't know how it worked
 - Happy with the win no matter the size it seemed
 - Went back to roulette
 - Seemed to be the favorite
 - Back to blackjack
 - Bounced between blackjack and slots for whatever reasons
 - Got more upset at slots than blackjack
 - Def didn't like roulette, every time she went to it only spun once
 - "Noooo, I'm going back to this [blackjack]"
- Bored after 10 minutes

Asked some questions:

- 1) The wheel
 - a) Easy to understand, because I've never done any of these before
- 2) Blackjack
- 3) Slots
- 4) Craps
- 5) Roulette
 - a) Too much to read
 - b) Too busy (UI)

All of them were easy to figure out if you took the time to read

When she got more was happy, when went under says it didn't matter
If there was a leaderboard "I would be more careful"

Polymarket observation:

- Instructed to “play around like it was for fake money, but for leaderboard points”
- Clicked to politics first
 - Kinda scrolled a little bit
 - Would bet on the first one on the page, but because she had an opinion that was shown as the main thing
 - Actively said “would not bet on this, I don’t think it’s gonna happen”
 - Had some ethical concerns about this section
- Went to sports next, scrolling down the sports list to tennis (she plays tennis)
 - “I would do some tennis bets”
 - “I’m betting on Rybakina, I’m betting on my girl” (favorite player)
 - Very interested on the comment section
- Clicked through some more categories, scrolling on tech next
- “I would bet on these climate ones”
- “Woah, gamblings kinda fun. I would gamble if I had the money”
- Would bet on Fed decisions and rate cuts and stuff
- Went back to trending (really used the categories hard)
 - Never used the search bar
 - Also never clicked on the how it works button
- “I’m betting on whether Jesus Christ returns before 2027”
- Would bet on Spain winning
 - Seems to only bet on things she actually had opinions on before
- Then went to new tab
 - Only tab she made it to the “show more” button
- “I would do any bets on heated rivalry”
- Wouldn’t bet on anything else (while looking at the dumb new ones)

Done after 7 min

Questions:

Would def do more if it were Grinnell related

Especially on Grinnell sports

Said layout was intuitive

Didn’t really see the top part of the page tho (some buttons up there)

Only would bet on things had previous knowledge on

But if it’s fake points voting on anything

But but if theres a leaderboard maybe not (probably not)